Corps in New Orleans announces promotions

NEW ORLEANS—Former Maj. Stephen E. Jeselink, deputy commander for the New Orleans District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, was recently promoted to lieutenant colonel. A Monroe, La., native with 17 years federal service, he previously served as a project manager and assistant area engineer in the district's New Orleans Area Office overseeing construction.

Denise Frederick was promoted to chief of Office of Counsel. Frederick has worked for the Corps 13 years, and has served the federal government 28 years.

Bruce Terrell is now chief of the Construction Division. Terrell was formerly assistant division chief, and has worked for the Corps 29 years.

Alan Hunter is the new area engineer for the New Orleans Area Office, which manages construction contracts in the New Orleans vicinity. Hunter worked for the St. Louis and Vicksburg districts before moving here in 2002.

John Grieshaber was promoted to chief of the Civil Branch, Engineering Division. He was previously chief of Structural Foundations, and has worked for the Corps since 1974.

Mike Park is the new deputy chief of Operations Division. A Corps member for 18 years, Park was previously chief of the Operations' Technical Support Branch.

Fred Schilling, formerly chief of Structural Design Branch, Engineering, replaced Park as chief of Operations' Technical Support Branch. Schilling is a 27-year Corps member.
